State spotlight: Children with Special Health Care Needs

The Palau Maternal and Child Health program works with local NGO's such as Palau Parents Empowered and Omekesang, which are organizations that assist families who have children with special health care needs to provide trainings, workshops and activities on healthcare provision, and discussions on topics such as basic life support and transitions into adolescence and adult life. These trainings create a venue for information sharing for parents of Children with Special Needs (CSN) on information and tools available to assist families and available services, visiting specialists and family support networks. The program also continues to work with these organizations and partner programs and agencies in developing and promoting health education materials that are culturally appropriate for Palau's children with special health care needs and their families.

Current Special Projects of Regional and National Significance (SPRANS)

Special Projects of Regional and National Significance (SPRANS) funding complements the formula funding each state receives and helps ensure the success of state Title V, Medicaid, and CHIP programs by driving innovation, responding to emerging and entrenched issues, and building capacity for integrated systems of care for women, children, and families.
