State spotlight: Epidemiology and Adverse Childhood Experiences (ACEs)

The Maternal Child Health Epidemiology Unit completed comprehensive work on the epidemiology of Adverse Childhood Experiences (ACEs) in Alaska. The new resource is intended as a pivotal report targeting a broad interdisciplinary audience with interest in ACEs in Alaska. Drawing on combined data from multiple sources, it examines disparities, highlights evidence-based interventions and recommends opportunities for prevention.

Current Special Projects of Regional and National Significance (SPRANS)

Special Projects of Regional and National Significance (SPRANS) funding complements the formula funding each state receives and helps ensure the success of state Title V, Medicaid, and CHIP programs by driving innovation, responding to emerging and entrenched issues, and building capacity for integrated systems of care for women, children, and families.
