State spotlight: Public Health Networks & Systems

The department uses Title V resources to address overarching maternal and child health initiatives, including the following:

- Implementation of Texas Alliance for Innovation on Maternal Health (TexasAIM), a statewide quality improvement initiative that helps hospitals and communities improve maternal safety through implementing best practice.
- Collaboration and coalition building to develop and implement services to improve the overall health and well-being of adolescents through the Texas Youth Action Network.
- Leading the Help Me Grow Texas affiliate network to build and enhance statewide early childhood systems so communities can support the optimal health, development, and well-being of Texas children.

Current Special Projects of Regional and National Significance (SPRANS)

Special Projects of Regional and National Significance (SPRANS) funding complements the formula funding each state receives and helps ensure the success of state Title V, Medicaid, and CHIP programs by driving innovation, responding to emerging and entrenched issues, and building capacity for integrated systems of care for women, children, and families.
